Fall 2018: MRED Orientation Program
The Fall 2018 incoming MRED students took their first steps in the ARCH Building on August 18-19 for the MRED Orientation and Assessment Program. The two days kicked off on Saturday with a building and library tour followed by lunch with faculty and staff. The day proceeded with an overview of the program and an Excel Assessment. The students also got to hear about industry organizations and events. Additionally, Lisa Rother, Executive Director, ULI Washington was on hand to talk about student memberships and to answer questions. The day ended with a wine and cheese reception where students had an opportunity to network.

Russia Abroad: Urban Redevelopment Studio

The St. Petersburg studio brought U.S. and Russian students together for a month of collaborative work, creating a proposal for the redevelopment of a site in the former industrial zone of the City. Guided by U.S. and Russian faculty, students of architecture, planning, economics, real estate development, and historic preservation brought their diverse professional and cultural perspectives to envision together the next chapter in the history of the former Soviet industrial area. The studio culminated with a presentation of proposals to local officials.

The studio was taught by both U.S. and Russian faculty. Associate Professor of Architecture, Madlen Simon and Clinical Assistant Professor of Real Estate Development, Tanya Bansal of the University of Maryland, Professor of Economics, Leonid Limonov of the National Research University Higher School of Economics (NRU HSE) and Professor of Architecture, Vladimir Linov of St. Petersburg State University of Architecture and Civil Engineering (GASU), served as the primary program faculty. Additional U.S. and Russian faculty contributed to the program including Professor Emeritus of Real Estate Development, Margaret McFarland of the University of Maryland, Anna Kathanova of the St. Petersburg City Planning Administration and Dean Fedor Perov of GASU.

MRED at The Power Conference 2018: Summer Intensive!

On August 9th, hundreds of business women from the MD-DC-VA region converged at the Montgomery County Conference Center/North Bethesda Marriott for the The Power Conference 2018: Summer Intensive. The immersive one-day conference of networking and promotional opportunities was designed to challenge and act on business development and professional growth. MRED students, Catherine Inniss and Elizabeth Hawley, along with MRED Director Maria Day-Marshall, attended and participated in the Conference.

Annapolis: Interdisciplinary Project Tour
On August 21st, to kick off the Fall semester, the School of Architecture hosted an interdisciplinary tour for incoming students in Annapolis, MD. Students had the unique opportunity to tour several ongoing projects to enrich their experience in development, historic preservation, planning and architecture including a mixed-use site located at 110 Compromise Street on the historic City Dock, a newly constructed office building on Giddings West, and an adaptive re-use condominium project. They were also treated to a tour of the U.S. Naval Academy campus and a walking tour of downtown Annapolis. The day was capped off with talks by representatives of the Annapolis Department of Planning and Zoning regarding historic preservation, flooding, zoning, and planning matters.
